A maze of small and dark rooms on the ground floor of the mews house was opened up to create two bright bedrooms and bathrooms. The main bedroom has an en-suite bathroom with a large walk-in shower separated with a glazed screen. The new oak flooring links the spaces visually and allows them to flow into each other. A new folded steel plate stair leads up to the open plan kitchen/living/dining space on the first floor. New glazed doors open up and connect the space with the outside in the summer, and the new galvanised steel balcony hinges open to allow furniture to be moved in and out. New built-in furniture and kitchen keeps the room uncluttered and maximises the feeling of space.
